

and the commission paid by his father. And let us not lose sight of the point. Our society has given extraordinary powers to men over the age of twenty-one, but to such we must have a man of the world class. Born into a poor, quiet class, he came to this country with his parents, and after years of isolation he is now sharing the common room of every little establishment he finds in the neighbourhood of the City. From there he goes on to London, and so, eventually, bringing with him all the kno