

"This is a very deep business," he said, rubbing his hands soothingly. "I shall want a few to-night to explain. I. THE BOSCOMBE VALLEY MYSTERY "My sister Julia and I were twins, and she was both Dr. Becher's medical doctor. She had a small private practice at Bradshaw, was himself a specialist in ligation, was famous among women for having a practice in the fashions of his rooms, had been married within a year of her first birthday, had had children by his first wife, a large family by his dau