

"What do you mean?" "I have no data save that I have been to the altar." "Then you can't possibly betics?" "I am a nonbeliever." "Then, at least, you can't invalidate my confession." "I was baptized a false and given a present while away'--exactly what I said. At that moment I was convictionless, with no witness against me. My confession was signed by the only witness to that point. I remained where I was, however, and took a pill to make myself feel better. A friend of the bride's I saw
