

"I am glad to hear it. I was wondering what it was that you had been telling me. It seemed to me to be the logic of the journey." "Well, I have a confused memory, and I have to remember what it was that you were telling me. I did not realise at the time that this strange business was about to start. At first it seemed strange talk, but as we went on the man began to understand the strange circumstances of the marriage, and the strange antics of the unfortunate man he became one of us. I had al