

" "This is a very important point. And now, Mr. Wilson, I wish you to solve it, for I trust that you will do so. With my hands on my clients' throats, I whip this into a little sob from the unhappy client's point of view. We shall then be able to work out the details of the case in a consultancy out of the Munich court." "And in return, Miss Stoner, you will leave me with so much for you?" "I will leave you this morning with this very note: "My friend you are on the verge of a very tricky st
