

"I have been married five times. Three times it was a lucky chance, and the second time it was a whistle for ambition. Now, for the first time, I have a question for you, Mr. Parr." The ruddy-haired gentleman took a folded paper from his pocket and rolled it out to the page. "This is the English Bible," said Holmes. "It is in several places indicated in some details which I find very strange and unusual. Of these, less than three are in the New Testament. Of these, two are very large, the oth