

"Where can I look?" "That is very clear. I have been looking for some way out of this black hole which I have been thrust into." "I have seen the papers," said Sherlock Holmes, shutting our door. "The King's Speech?" "Yes. The little things are just so big and so so neat they make me think a geese would not fit in there." "But you have read the papers," said Holmes. "The King is not here. I have not even taken a glance at his paper. What have you to say, then?" Sherlock Holmes looked dee